FROM A CAR WINDOW.

Beneath the bright blue sky

The rye
Is waving on the hills,
And in the fifful breeze
The trees
Are nestling o'er the rills
Upon whose waves the Hly dips,
Wille o'er its pads the tector trips.

We see the cow cavort
In sport
Along the brooklet clear,
And with her airy tell
No'er fail
To fetch right off her car
The horseity that would est disturb
Her dreams while munching twig or herb.

Oh, who could ridicule You mule. That stands with Spartan grit, And finds 'neath well-aimed blows Retoose And sinds mean wen-amoud blood And smiles whenever hit, A smile that round-his face careers Until it melts behind his cars?

Observe the farmer scratch
The patch
Up hill with hos or rake;
Observe him then unplug
The jug
Of switchel, to parinte
Of one long pull and thenge back,
The rich moist carth to rudely whack.

Now twillight like a dream And valley softly rosts;
The landscape fades away
With day—
Sweet scenes whose calm protests
Against the meiancholy loon,
Beneath the young and rising moon.

Oh, hear the brakenan's shrill
"Mendville!"
And then the shamming door,
Then see the bright
Usertic light
When, on the ground once more,
We for the restaurant take wings.
The while its bell for supper rings.

THE FIGHT AGAINST GORMAN. What the Independent Movement Means.
A Revolt Against Bosslsm.

The independent Democratic ticket which has been put in nomination in this city this year, and which will find place accordingly upon the official ballot, is singularly free from any taint or suspicion of this odious form of selfsuspicion of this odious form of selfsecking. It is not a "sorchead" ticket.

No attempt has been made to cover the whole range of offices to be filled by the popular vote on the third of November, and what we have already said more especially of the legislative ticket in the Second district may be repeated in reference to the First district, that it is composed of men who, if anything, make a sacrifice of their own personal comfort and inclinations, as well as interests, in consenting to become candidates at all.

A candidate for the mayoralty, a candidate for the State's attorneyship, and nominations for the senate and house of delegates in two legislative districts make up the sum total of what may properly be called the Independent Democratic ticket. A few scattering nominations are made for the City Council. Wherever the independents have nominated Democrats and the Republicans have made no nominations, as in the case of the mayoralty, the as in the case of the mayoralty, the State's attorneyship and the legislative tickets in the First and Second districts, states attorneyship and the legislative tickets in the First and Second districts, there is no reason why Democrats should not exercise the most absolute freedom of choice. We can conceive of no principle of party fealty which under the peculiar conditions which obtain in this city can be held to fetter or restrict that choice. The one set of candidates have been nominated by the regular machinery of the party, manipulated and controlled by a small clique or coterie of self-constituted managers or bosses. The other set have been placed in the field by individual citizens and Democrats who are opposed to the "bosses" and to the present system and methods of party management. Their claims and merits as Democrats being equal, both sides must rely upon the equal, both sides must rely upon the public appreciation and estimate, first of all, of their individual worth and qualifications as candidates, and second-ly, of the policy and principles of Democratic administration which they reoratic administration which they respectively represent.

The fact that there are two sets of Democratic candidates arrayed against each other for the important offices of mayor, State's attorney, State Senators and delegates in two districts without any Republican candidate or contestant for the same offices should set every Democratic voter and every Republican voter to thinking and comparing not merely the individual merits of the men, but the principles and ideas of which they are the representatives and exponents. Doubtless a good deal of such thinking is and has been quietly going on in the community. There is no doubt that the dissatusfaction of which we have spoken with the ways no doubt that the dissatisfaction of which we have spoken with the ways and methods of the "bosses," and with the "bosses" themselves, is both deep and widespread in the Democratic ranks. It is not, as we have aiready said, and as the character of the independent nominations abundantly demonstrates, the dissatisfaction of "sore-onstrates, the dissatisfaction of "sore-onstrates, the dissatisfaction of users." onstrates, the dissatisfaction of "sore-heads," of men who have failed to seeure the favor of the managers, or who, having served the managers and been served by them in turn, have been dis-having served the managers and been served by them in turn, have been discarded as of no further use.

It is the dissatisfaction of the plain people, of the honest masses of the party, who have grown sick and weary of the greed and selfishness of the party leaders and of the corrupt methods by which they have sought to enrich themselves and retain their power. How far this dissatisfaction will lead to a revolt on election day and to a diversion of the Democratic vote from the "regular" to the "independent" candidates only the election returns can show. The situation certainly invites great independence of action. The unquestioned personal worth and character of the "independent" candidates, without detracting from that of some of the regular candidates, furnishes a further incentive and encouragement to such action. The politic forbearance of the Republicans to make any party nominations of their own in the cases we have mentioned, thus leaving the field entirely to the rival Democratic candidates, removes the greatest difficulty in the way of independent voting which the average voter experiences. the average voter experiences.

The End of Polygamy.

Judge Charles S. Zane, the chief justice of the Supreme Court of Utah, has presided at the trials of all the Mormons who have been tried for polygamy. IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY.

Consecration of Rev. Isane Lea Nicholson

PHILADELPHIA, PA., Oct. 28.-Impressive ceremonies marked this morning the consecration of Rt. Rev. Isnac Loa Nicholson, S. T., to the Bishopric of Milwaukee. The event took place in the Episcopal church of St. Marks, on Locust street, to which the newly made bishop has ministered for many years. The hour fixed for the ceremonies of the day was at 10:30, but many of those that participated in the 9 o'clock service had their seats before 10 o'clock, Promptly on the appointed time the procession moved from the parish building and entered the church. First came the choir and following the choir were over 200 clergy from all parts of the country. Behind these came six-teen bishops escorting the bishop-elect, while the vestry of the church brought up the rear. The holy communion was proceeded with, Bishop McLean, of Chi-cago, officiating as celebrant. The ser-mon was delivered by Bishop Grafton, of Fond Delivered by Bishop Grafton,

The oath was then administered to Bishop Nicholson, while the choir rendered the Litany, the ceremony concluding with the congregation joining in singing the hymn "Praise to the Holiest."

Something of a Borrower, She.

This is from the Lewiston (Me.) Journal: The most persistent berrower heard from lately lives in Bath. She sent to a neighbor the other day and sent to a neighbor the other day and requested the loan of a new pair of scis-sors. The refusal of therequest did not daunt her, for she at once sent her daughter back to the owner of the seis-sors with the request: "Will you please lend mother a quarter to buy a pair of scissors with?"

"There goes a man who has saved sixty-three lives."

"You—don't—say."
"Yes, when his house burned down he carried out the family cat and six kittens."
